

CAMPAIGN BIOGRAPHY

Harry Young Cochran for Pennsylvania State Senate, District 32

Harry Young Cochran is a former state legislator, Army veteran, and small business owner who has spent his life serving his community and his country. Born and raised in southwestern Pennsylvania, Harry understands the values of hard work, faith, and personal responsibility that define the people of the 32nd Senate District.

Harry served in the United States Army during the Vietnam era, answering the call to serve his country before returning home to build a life rooted in family, work, and community involvement. He went on to serve in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, where he gained firsthand experience with how Harrisburg operates and why too often government loses touch with the people it is meant to serve.

Earlier in his career, Harry served as a Democrat, but he refused to follow a party that moved away from common sense and working-class values. As the political landscape changed, Harry chose principle over party and aligned himself with the America First movement. Today, he is a proud MAGA conservative committed to defending faith, family, freedom, and the Constitution.

Throughout his life, Harry has worked in both the public and private sectors. As a local official and small business owner, he understands the burden government places on families, farmers, and job creators. He believes in secure elections, limited government, lower taxes, energy independence, and policies that allow Pennsylvania workers and small businesses to thrive.

Harry Young Cochran is running to return to Harrisburg because he believes the people of southwestern Pennsylvania deserve real representation, not career politicians or political insiders. He is committed to restoring accountability, protecting taxpayers, and standing up to an establishment that has forgotten who it works for.

Harry is running for Pennsylvania State Senate to fight for the future of the 32nd District and to ensure Pennsylvania puts its people first.
